

A UNIQUE FORUM

Implementing an Aggregate Spend Solution is about more than interpreting the laws. IDEAS also addresses the unique and complex implementation challenges across multiple departments.

We don't just talk about the problems; together, we find solutions.

WHO SHOULD JOIN

IDEAS is a virtual community for open communication between cross-functional members, including:

- IT
- Compliance
- Legal
- Finance
- Operations
- Anyone involved in implementing an Aggregate Spend Solution.

If you are grappling with Aggregate Spend implementation, the IDEAS forum is for you

IDEAS is a members-only, peer-to-peer community of companies subject to transparency and disclosure laws, including the federal Sunshine Act. Our discussions focus on the day-to-day practical challenges of implementing and maintaining a viable Aggregate Spend Solution that works for the way you do business.

Features and Benefits

IDEAS was founded by Kim Life and Dean Rossi at the request of veteran in-house life sciences Aggregate Spend implementers looking for a forum through which to share solutions and ideas. Through close collaboration with their in-house colleagues, they are guiding companies toward implementation best-practices that work.

LIFE COMPLIANCE SOLUTIONS dedicates its consulting practice to helping life sciences business partners find solutions to compliance challenges. We are unique in this field: Working closely with the law firm of Life & Moran, LP, our practical in-house legal and compliance experience, coupled with our extensive business and technical backgrounds, ensures that your solutions meet your compliance goals within the framework of how you do business. Together, LCS and Life & Moran offer clients complete solutions.

Kim Life, Esq., is the founder of Life Compliance Solutions, and an Executive Director of Life & Moran. Kim leads the life sciences practices, offering advice and counseling to companies grappling with compliance issues, including transparency and disclosure. With over nine years of pharmaceutical and healthcare legal and compliance experience, both as in-house and outside counsel, she is recognized as a leader in developing and implementing compliant Aggregate Spend Solutions that conform to the way the industry does business.

Kim earned her law degree from the Duke University School of Law. She is licensed to practice in California and the District of Columbia.

ALANDA SOFTWARE has developed one of the leading industry aggregate spend database solutions. The software solution features an integrated business rules engine, provides the ability to not only track and report expenses per legislative requirements, but also to proactively alert and monitor spend data in accordance with corporate governance policies. Alanda's advanced Compliance Reporting package is a valuable augmentation to the Aggregate Spend solution. It enables Compliance departments to gain better knowledge and insight into their organizations Reportable Recipient spending practices.

Alanda also provides Aggregate Spend gap analysis consulting, analyzing current spend source systems to establish readiness for inclusion in an aggregate spend initiative.

Dean Rossi, the owner of Alanda, is responsible for Alanda's overall vision and strategy, developing Alanda's business development efforts, finance, and product direction and design. He has over twenty years of technology and consulting experience in the life sciences industry, as well as finance and internet commerce.

Dean has designed, architected, and led custom Aggregate Spend Solution projects for two large pharmaceutical organizations, working closely with internal compliance, business, and IT. Multiple life science organizations currently use Alanda's commercial Aggregate Spend platform, which is in its third iteration. As a thought leader in Transparency and Disclosure, Dean leads expert panels related to Aggregate Spend technology at industry conferences and for industry organizations, including the New Jersey Technology Council.
